Charlotte Milene Wells, 62, was the daughter of Miles William Taylor and Charlotte Klestinski. She married Don Wells in 1963.

Survivors include her mother, Charlotte Klestinski, daughter Amy Gilson, a son Brian Wells, two sisters, Pat DeHeer and Dawn Coker, two brothers, Jack Taylor, and Billy Taylor, one granddaughter, Donna Covington and two great-grandchildren.

Charlotte was preceded in death by her father, Miles Taylor and one daughter, Sharon Marie Wells.

Ms. Wells grew up in Rankin. She began a work career at Chanute Air Force Base in Rantoul. She retired from the U.S. Geological Survey in Reston, Virginia, in 2007, after 43 years of federal service.

Charlotte was a professional organist, music and choir director and performed in many Washington, D.C. area churches, including St. Dominic's in downtown Washington, D.C., Jane Dechantal Catholic Church in Bethesda, Maryland and St. Ignatius Catholic Church in Oxen Hill, Maryland.

She was known as "the hat lady" because of her love of wearing hats while performing.

Ms. Wells was a member of St. Bridget's Chapel in the Field in Berryville, Virginia, American Guild of Organists, Red Hat Society, Red Hearts of Bethesda Chapter and Toastmasters International.
